THE PROBLEM

Our democracy is more fragile than ever. Congress is paralyzed by partisan gridlock and cannot address the long-term challenges facing our country. Long-standing ethical norms and laws are being violated. Dark money is playing an ever-increasing role in our politics. Foreign actors are tampering with our elections. Voters feel alienated from their government and question its ability to deliver results for their families and communities. Simply put, our country needs an historic wave of reforms that strengthen our democracy.

THE SOLUTION

Fortunately, the public, media and elected officials are increasingly aware of and concerned by the threats facing our democracy. Based on this alarm, and the rapid deterioration of the basic functioning of our government, there is a growing consensus that now is the time for change. Vast majorities of citizens support reform: more than four in five voters in the 2018 election support bipartisan political reform – including 85 percent of Democrats, 81 percent of independents, and 78 percent of Republicans. Enter Issue One, the leading cross-partisan political reform group in Washington founded to fix democracy first. We unite Republicans, Democrats, and independents in a uniquely bipartisan strategy to fix our broken political system.

OUR IMPACT

Since 2014, Issue One has been building a cross-partisan movement for change. We have organized and built a credible, well-connected community that is energized and committed to fixing the political system, including 200 former members of Congress and 32 current members of Congress whose working group is committed exclusively to political reform. We have helped craft and build support for two bipartisan pieces of federal legislation – one to advance transparency in online advertising and one to improve enforcement of existing election laws. We have also held the Trump administration accountable for its multiple conflicts of interests and ethical lapses. Our high-quality investigations and reports make waves and help establish new conversations about the need for reform. Our Rebuild Congress Initiative has engaged more than 60 Republican and Democratic members of Congress to help create the Select Committee on the Modernization of Congress.
