Mandatory protections are necessary by law. Technology companies should be required to protect children who use their platforms, and be prohibited from designing products that purposefully addict and harm children.	86	96	75	86	82	91	86	86	86	87	86	87	86
Mandatory protections are unnecessary government regulations. This burdensome intervention in the private sector will stunt growth of these companies. When profits are lost, innovation is also hurt.	10	3	17	11	14	5	9	10	10	9	6	10	9

Question 56. Lawmakers in Congress are proposing a bill named the Kids Online Safety Act. The bill would:

- Require social media platforms to enable safeguard settings for minors and provide minors with options to protect their information, disable addictive product features, and opt out of algorithmic recommendations
- Give parents new controls to support their children and spot harmful behaviors. It would also provide a channel to report harms to kids
- Require social media platforms to restrict content on self harm, suicide, eating disorders, substance abuse, and sexual exploitation
- Require social media platforms to perform a yearly audit assessing and addressing any risks to minors
- Provide researchers and non-profit organizations with social media data regarding harms to the safety and well-being of minors on platforms

Do you support or oppose the Kid's Online Safety Act?
